

PROBLEM

A University Professor by the name of Carolyn needed a partial knee replacement. In Canada, the public healthcare system presented her with limitations. Because the offending injury was the result of playing recreational sports, and since the pain came and went making the issue go undiagnosed for a long period of time, her condition was deemed not urgent enough to solidify a surgery date. Without further assistance, Carolyn's injury never would have been dealt with.

SOLUTION

Fortunately, Carolyn had a Best Doctors Insurance policy that could help. She contacted Best Doctors Insurance and explained the issue. Within a few weeks, the Best Doctors team put her in touch with a sports medicine orthopedic care clinic located in Arizona. She underwent specialized treatment for a term of 60 days including therapy and now lives pain-free with fully restored mobility in her knee.
